

LOCAL SOCIAL EVENTS

Douglas-Avers

The following account of the marriage of Miss Grace Margaret Douglas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Douglas, which was solemnized at 10 o'clock last Thursday, will be of interest locally as both have visited on several occasions in this city as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Crigler. The bride is a native of Mrs. James H. Thomas and of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stannagen of this city. The Cumberland Evening Times says:

"One of the most brilliant weddings of the season was that of Wm. Alexander Douglas and Miss Grace Margaret Avers in St. John's Lutheran Church last evening at 8:15 o'clock.

The bridegroom is one of the well-known and popular young men of this city. He is an executive man and is now connected with the Cessna Lumber Co. The bride is the daughter of John W. Avers, 125 Grand avenue, a passenger conductor on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Mrs. Douglas has been an employee of the Liberty Trust Co., since its organization, and prior to that with the Citizens National

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with pine and rhododendron. Tall candles around the sides of the room and upon the altar added to the impressiveness of the scene.

"At the organ was Mrs. J. Perry Greenwald of Keyser, W. Va., a cousin of the bride. Beginning at 8 p. m. she rendered as a prelude several classical selections. This was followed by a vocal solo, 'At Dawning,' by Cadman, sung by Mrs. Harold H. Harned of Oakland, and a duet, 'O Perfect Love,' a prayer song by Burleigh, sung by the Rev. J. W. Drawbaugh and J. Perry Greenwald, both of Keyser.

To the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin the nuptial party paced into the church and to the altar. The ushers were Bruce P. Richardson and Edward F. Gross. The best man was Carl Radcliffe. The matron of honor was Mrs. Guy Crigler of Fairmont, W. Va., who was attired in a high-collared gown of broadened orange crepe, with iridescent ornaments. She carried a bouquet of pink Orphelia roses tied with orchid ribbon. The bridesmaids were Misses Jessie Gank and Ruth Paupe, both of this city.

The beautiful costumes worn by them were of changeable taffeta made alike with straight bodices and uneven hem line, the first named was green and the second, honey dew. They carried old-fashioned bouquets. The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father. Her wedding gown was a beautiful creation of silver lace over ivory satin, the long skirt with points of lace on each side. The veil was of bridal tulle trimmed with a band of silver lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white Orphelia roses and lilies of the valley. At the steps of the altar the father handed the daughter to the waiting bridegroom. Then were pronounced the solemn words by the officiating minister, the Rev. Chas. R. Botsford that made the young couple husband and wife.

Mendelssohn's wedding march pealed from the organ as the nuptial procession departed from the altar.

A large number of invitations had been issued for the event and the church was filled with guests. Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride, attended by more than one hundred invited guests. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas left on Baltimore & Ohio train No. 12 on their way to Florida and Cuba. They will be at home to their friends on Christmas Day.

"The bride was the recipient of a large number of beautiful and costly presents."
